YESTERDAY WAS A LIVELY ONE FOR LITTLE DAN CUPID

He Sees an Hawaiian Bride and Groom Through a Wedding and Luau and Reunites an Illegally Married Pair.

AN OLD-TIME Hawaiian wedding was celebrated yesterday evening at the home of William Ringer at Waikahalulu, this city, the happy couple being Miss Maraea Nahinu and Mr. Kila Kaahue. The wedding ceremony, which was performed at the Catholic Cathedral, was followed by a formal reception and a luau which has rarely been excelled in this city in the last few years. The bridal party, consisting of the prospective bride and groom, attended by Mr. William Ringer, the bridesmaids, Miss Miller and Miss Rice, and their escorts, Mr. Brewster and Mr. Adam Baker, were driven from the home of the bride to the Cathedral, where a large number of friends awaited them. The bride was attired in a beautiful water silk train with tulle veil and turban. She carried a beautiful bouquet of roses and carnations. The bridesmaids wore white silk gowns and carried bouquets.

Upon their return to Waikahalulu, where so much festivity awaited the party, they were greeted by a big gathering of their friends. The bride and groom walked solemnly from the carriage to the parlor of the house, where they received. The utmost formality reigned during this ceremony. The guests passed through the gayly decorated dwelling into a large enclosure where an open air lanai had been erected. A huge sail-cloth covered the framework, which was also deftly concealed by a mass of palm leaves, ferns and other tropical greenery. A large number of lanterns suspended from the ceiling threw a glare of light upon three large tables laden with native dishes. The tables were arranged in a Hawaiian, the leaves forming the covering, upon which rested calabashes and bowls of poi, ophi, pig hot from the imu, dainty desserts and many kinds of liquid refreshments. More than 125 guests seated themselves at the groaning boards and waited for the guests of honor. Silence reigned until they appeared and seated themselves at the head of the table. Mr. Ringer then announced that the luau would be opened with prayer. A prayer was offered by a native minister and the long silence was at once broken by outbursts of congratulations for the bride and groom, and toasts were offered in full bumpers of wine, beer and gin. The feast was partaken of mostly by the native friends of the young couple, although a number of white people were present as spectators. The tables, all

THE ARMY HALL WAS WELL FILLED

It was an easy matter to pick out the visiting delegates, and officers to the Army's Congress in their parade last night, for, arrayed in khaki uniforms with bright red guernseys on, they were very conspicuous, both in marching and in speaking. One of them, Captain Bamberg, hailing from Maui, had charge of the street meeting.

Monday night is usually an off-night, but attracted by the big parade a good crowd filled the hall on the corner of King and Nuuanu. The brass band led the singing. The preliminary exercises were presided over by Major Harris, and many of the visitors availed themselves of the opportunity to speak and as quite a few of them are old Honolulu boys their addresses were listened to with much interest.

Col. French, as usual, was the speaker of the evening, taking for his text the verse, "What man is he that desireth life and loveth many days that he may see good?" He said this was a most important question and if the Socratic line of argument was followed it might be replied to in another question, "What man is he that desireth death?" Proceeding the preacher said:

"It is life that people are after. There may be a few who on account of disappointment and discouragement desire death through suicide, and seek a way out through the poisonous cup, the revolver or the river, but these are the few, the exception which proves the rule. I was told of a man while riding around Kauai, who had his hand caught in a piece of machinery in a sugar mill; realizing he was face to face with death he called to one of his men to take his cane knife and cut off his arm. He thought it would be better to go through life without that arm; he wanted to live. Life is dear. Do we want life? What is the remedy? The Psalmist gives it. 'Let him depart from evil.' 'I declare evil shall slay the wicked.' Remember it is not God who does it; it is the sin in our life and sin must be given up if we would live."

In response to the eloquent appeal one man went forward.

Tonight is the "Children's Night" the program will be most interesting. Major Harris, the Young People's secretary, will be in charge. The little folks will sing and play and march and go through their drills. There will be a dedication of some children and a swearing in of junior members.

THE FIRE ALARM TELEGRAPH SYSTEM

There was but one bid submitted to the Fire Commissioners for the contract to install a fire alarm system in Honolulu. A. J. Coffee of San Francisco, representing the Gamewell Fire and Police Alarm Company, offers to do the work for $20,000 gold coin, or treasury warrants drawing interest at though very long, were not large enough to accommodate all who came. A native quintet supplied music during the evening and as the hours sped by the merriment increased. The luau and other entertainment afforded the guests continued until long after midnight.

Every effort was made by Mr. Ringer to have the luau conducted as much after the old style of Hawaiian feasts as possible, and he succeeded, much to the delight of all present. The groom is a promising young man, 19 years of age, who is connected with the Wilder Steamship Company.

MARRIED FOR A SECOND TIME.

After living together as man and wife for seven months, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schoellkopf awakened yesterday to the unpleasant realization that they had never been legally married. Mr. Schoellkopf is the lessee of the Hawaiian Hotel barber shop, and came to Honolulu in January on his wedding trip.

He was married to Miss Adeline Gibouret, a young lady of San Rafael, in that city January 5, 1901, the ceremony having been performed by Judge Gardner, who was City Recorder. The happily wedded pair came to Honolulu immediately and the husband took charge of the Hawaiian Hotel barber shop. Their honeymoon was as pleasant as even the happiest wedded pair could wish, and not until yesterday was there a shadow to cross their path. This came in the files of the San Francisco Call, which paper on the 20th published a story to the effect that thirty marriage ceremonies performed by Judge Gardner and other City Recorders of San Rafael within the past thirty months were illegal and void. This was due to a California law which provided that marriages could only be performed by justices, ministers or judges. Judge Gardner at the time held none of these positions, and to make the case of the Honolulu couple worse, he had died in the meantime.

Mr. and Mrs. Schoellkopf accordingly decided when they learned of their strange relation to have the marriage ceremony repeated.

The wedding was celebrated last evening by the Rev. Mr. Felme of the German Lutheran Church at his home on King street. Otto Kraft and Charles Remschel, both of this city, attended the groom. The bride was unattended. Immediately after the ceremony, which occurred at 8 o'clock, the wedding party sat down to an elaborate wedding supper at the Grill. Mr. and Mrs. Schoellkopf reside at the corner of Punchbowl and Miller streets.

5 per cent. The contract has not been signed as yet, but probably will be today.

The specifications call for a storage switch board with batteries at the central station to connect with sixty-five signal stations to be placed as directed by the chief of the Fire Department. Twenty of these boxes are to have keyless doors and the remainder will be provided with keys. A steam whistle blower, one large gong, and nine electric horse releases are to be provided at the central station, and electric gongs and release are also to be installed at stations Nos. 3 and 4. Mr. Coffee agrees to have the system complete and ready for use within eight months after the signing of the contract.

The same company also submitted a bid of $20,000 for the installation of a police box system with fifty stations connected with the central office.

THE ELKS INITIATE.

Joe Seeley and Charley Ramsay Impaled on the Horns.

Joe Seeley, chief steward of the steamship Zealandia, grew a pair of horns last night, and so did Charlie Ramsay, secretary of Hart & Co., of this city. In other words, they were initiated into the Benevolent Order of Elks. The older Elks were out in force last night and with their horns sharpened, as Seeley and Ramsay learned to their sorrow during the initiation, and to their extreme delight during the social portion of the meeting. Joe Seeley, popular on board his steamship and with everybody who came to Honolulu on the Zealandia during the past half-dozen years, was initiated with emblems of the sea predominating.

Sonny Cunha was discovered early in the evening dragging a heavy ship's chain up Fort street to Progress Hall, where the Elks browse. Everybody knew then that Joe Seeley was in for a time. Colonel Fisher was seen surreptitiously carrying a bag of sweetmeats to the hall, and it was apparent that Charlie Ramsay was to be a victim. Both were initiated into the lodge amid the ceremonies that the Elks love so well, and which the two initiated will never forget.

After the initiation the usual 11 p. m. ceremony was celebrated for the absent ones and "Home Sweet Home" sung with fervor. Then the Elks began their antics. The refreshments were passed around, consisting of champagne and sandwiches, the offering of Joe Seeley; and champagne and a magnificent cake, the token of submission offered by Charlie Ramsay. The cake was a sumptuous affair, depicting a clock, with the hands pointing to eleven, symbolizing the time when all Elks, the world over, toast their absent comrades. The rest of the social entertainment consisted in songs, stories, piano solos and cakewalks participated in by the Elks, whose horns had already shed their first coating of fur. Joe Seeley and Ramsay were compelled to do a cakewalk which was one of the hits of the evening.

A New York set of triplets are now on exhibition at the Buffalo Exposition. In the incubator in which they are to be reared.

The Theosophical Society meets this evening at 7:30, at Miss Rice's, on Beretania street. All are cordially invited.
